

September 19, 2025: Continuing Facts Relevant to the Death of Regina Santos-Aviles

During the period surrounding the incident, we watched two movies specifically depicting scenes similar to those described publicly about her own manner of death.

The first was Reservoir Dogs, which depicts Mr. Blonde holding a police officer hostage and threatening to set him on fire.

The second was American Gangster, which opens with Frank Lucas setting a person on fire and continues to describe the use of the United States military to bring drugs into America from Vietnam on behalf of Frank Lucas. By the end of the movie a large contingency of law enforcement officers are arrested on charges of corruption as well. This movie, in particular, is noteworthy as parallel to the facts that I am witnessing in my life (including right now as a jet flies over our home to emphasize the writings of this paragraph).

For the public record, this is an ongoing pattern of using facts learned from spying on my private home life to re-create literally threatening events and actual deaths in mass casualty events in the real world. I have been witnessing this pattern for years now.

CALIFORNIA

Tiny burning embers flew miles, causing L.A. fire destruction on historic scale

A firefighter with a headlamp hoses down flames as the Palmdale fire ravages homes on El Medo Avenue on Tuesday. (Brian van der Brug/Los Angeles Times)

By Grace Tuckey, Alex Wigglesworth and Rong-Gong Lin II
Jan. 9, 2025 3 AM PT

Subscribers are Reading >

Archer to open meat snacks factory in Vernon, employing more than 200

L.A. County approves $4-billion sex abuse settlement, largest in U.S. history

1 Voice
Areltano: Trump is wrong. My dad was a trucker, and he didn't need much English to do his job

30 must-read books for summer

Long Beach State defeats UCLA to win NCAA men's volleyball title

Latest California

Foster children were tortured for up to 10 years inside Victorville home, authorities say

Police say California father left 6-year-old son to die in hot car
17 minutes ago

Richard B. Spence

Richard B. Spence is a Professor Emeritus at the University of Idaho. He holds a PhD in History from the University of Idaho. He has also taught as a visiting assistant professor at the University of Idaho and military history, espionage, occult, and true crime. He is the author of seven books, including The Secret World of Sidney Reilly and Spies, Intelligence and the Occult. He has also

The Occult's Guidelines

Occultism does have rules, or at least some guidelines. Two essential principles are that everything is connected and everything is alive. The first principle is best expressed in the mystical mantra, “As above, so below.” The smallest thing reflects the greatest and vice versa. The occult treats consciousness, or will, as an energy that transcends all barriers and permeates everything. The universe, even if immaterial, is ultimately a single, vast, conscious entity.

It follows that in the so-called occultiverse, there is no such thing as accident or coincidence. Every action, no matter how seemingly insignificant, has meaning and purpose.

Other general rules are the law of attraction—that like attracts like—and the law of similarity. An example of the law of attraction is negative thinking attracting negative things. The law of similarity argues that any resemblance between two things—no matter how different otherwise—is indicative of some deeper, occult connection.

1. What Is the Occult?

Also relevant is a law of opposites: For every yin, there must be a yang. The deeper meaning is that apparent opposites are really different aspects of the same thing.

Finally, the occult is morally ambivalent. Nothing is inherently good or evil. Those qualities are found only in the intent—the will—behind them.

MAGA KING U L T R A
PROJECT MKULTRA, THE CIA'S PROGRAM OF RESEARCH IN BEHAVIORAL MODIFICATION

(BY FORCE OF WILL, OPPRESSION, AND THREATS)
 ('SILENCE OF THE LAMBS')

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1977

U.S. SENATE,
 SELECT COMMITTEE ON INTELLIGENCE,
 AND SUBCOMMITTEE ON HEALTH
 AND SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH
 OF THE COMMITTEE ON HUMAN RESOURCES,
 Washington, D.C.

The committees met, pursuant to notice, at 9:07 a.m. in room 1202, Dirksen Senate Office Building, Senator Daniel K. Inouye (chairman — of the Select Committee on Intelligence) presiding.

Present: Senators Inouye (presiding), Kennedy, Goldwater, Bayh, Hathaway, Huddleston, Hart, Schweiker, Case, Garn, Chafee, Lugar and Wallop.

Also present: William G. Miller, staff director, Select Committee on Intelligence; Dr. Lawrence Horowitz, staff director, Subcommittee on Health and Scientific Research; and professional staff members of both committees.

Senator INOUE. The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence is meeting today and is joined by the Subcommittee on Health and Scientific Research chaired by Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Senator Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania. Senator Hathaway and Senator Chafee are members of both committees. We are to hear testimony from the Director of Central Intelligence, Adm. Stansfield Turner, and from other Agency witnesses on issues concerning new documents supplied to the committee in the last week on drug testing conducted by the Central Intelligence Agency.

It should be made clear from the outset that in general, we are focusing on events that happened over 12 or as long as 25 years ago. It should be emphasized that the programs that are of greatest concern have stopped and that we are reviewing these past events in order to better understand what statutes and other guidelines might be necessary to prevent the recurrence of such abuses in the future. We also need to know and understand what is now being done by the CIA in the field of behavioral research to be certain that no current abuses are occurring.

I want to commend Admiral Turner for his full cooperation with this committee and with the Subcommittee on Health in recognizing that this issue needed our attention. The CIA has assisted our committees and staffs in their investigative efforts and in arriving at remedies which will serve the best interests of our country.